

[Penalty_Details] Is there a penalty for cancellation on Expedia?

Yes, there can be a penalty for cancellation on Expedia, but it depends on the cancellation policy set by the service provider—such as the airline, hotel, or vacation package operator—and the timing of your cancellation +1-(855)-(838)-(4706). Expedia acts as a booking platform, so the fees or penalties charged are determined by the terms agreed upon with the individual providers +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).

For flights, many airlines allow a 24-hour risk-free cancellation window where you can cancel without penalty if done within 24 hours of booking (and at least two days before departure) +1-(855)-(838)-(4706). Beyond that period, cancellation fees or penalties may apply based on the fare type purchased +1-(855)-(838)-(4706). Non-refundable tickets usually do not qualify for refunds and may incur full cancellation penalties +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).

Regarding hotels, cancellation penalties vary widely depending on the property's policy and the rate booked +1-(855)-(838)-(4706). Some hotels offer free cancellation up to a specified time before check-in, while others charge a fee or retain the full deposit for late cancellations or no-shows +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).

For vacation packages, cancellation penalties depend on the combined rules of the individual components, and fees can be more restrictive +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).

If Expedia itself cancels a booking or significantly changes it, the platform typically offers a full refund or alternative options without penalty +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).

In summary, penalties for cancellations on Expedia vary widely, and it is crucial to review the specific cancellation terms provided at booking to understand any potential fees or penalties +1-(855)-(838)-(4706).